New Company Announcement: Meeson Williams Planning and Building Surveying (PBS) Limited

Five well known local property professionals have joined forces to create one of the most highly experienced multi-disciplinary commercial property practices in Oxfordshire.

Meeson Williams PBS has combined town planning, building surveying and general practice commercial property expertise to provide clients with a broad range of advice. “It is common for projects, such as property acquisitions or building works, to involve our respective skills and this enables us to provide a better level of service.” Comments David Williams.

The five Directors, Jonathan Phillips, Paul Semple, Jonathan Longden, Mark Meeson and David Williams, also run successful established practices in the County, and the new company will work alongside JWPC (town planning), Leys Longden (building surveying) and Meeson Williams (commercial property surveyors).
