Meeson Williams Limited have recently been appointed as marketing agents for Grove Technology Park on the outskirts of Wantage and Grove.

The Park is an important regional business park in Oxfordshire extending to over 32 acres in total. It has expanded rapidly over the last few years with new development, attracting new companies to the area.

“Grove Technology Park is an impressive business campus in terms of its scale, and the diverse range of business accommodation available” comments David Williams of Meeson Williams. “The Park can offer anything from small offices from 200 sq ft up to development land to purchase for businesses to build their own premises. There are some great success stories at the Park, and it is well worth a visit.”

David adds, “We are delighted to be appointed as marketing agents, and this is an excellent addition to our existing portfolio of business parks in the county, including Apollo Office Park, Banbury Business Park and Norton Business Park in north Oxfordshire, West Oxfordshire Business and Retail Park, Barrington Park Estate and Blenheim Office Park in the west, and Edon Business Park to the east.”
