

PRESS RELEASE:

Production and R&D facility offered for sale for the first time in over twenty years

Technology House on the Oakfield Industrial Estate in Eynsham was constructed in the late 1980's as the UK headquarters for Airdri Limited the well-known global hand dryer manufacturer and also Formula Systems a global supplier, to the elevator industry, of leading technology electronic door safety edges and speech systems.

The facility totals 3,446 sq ms (37,102 sq ft) on 2.23 acres, and at one time employed 150 staff on site. As production continued to grow, manufacturing moved to China, leaving the head office and research & development functions in Eynsham, which are now to be accommodated in a smaller building in the area.

Technology House stands at the head of the estate road, with a gated entrance and views across surrounding farmland.

“It is rare to see a facility of this type in the market for sale”, comments David Williams from Meeson Williams. “Its size and large private site with further development potential (subject to planning), combined with being only five miles from the Botley A34 interchange, makes it an interesting opportunity for a wide range of businesses.”

Technology House is available for sale at £2,900,000, through Meeson Williams Chartered Surveyors (01865 349011).
